Dealt with Jimmy and Tom, they made the experience extremely enjoyable. They treated you as an equal, took time to BS with you, and was genuine. So hard to find people like that anymore! Fixed my problem in a couple hours.

I received my Dodge 3500 without an inspection and experienced the death wobble while on 95. scared me to death. The front end was obviously out of line and I did not know where to have it serviced. A number of mechanics recommended Framelite as one of the most professional shops in Baltimore. After having the front end "rebuilt" at Framelite, the truck rides like it should. Thanks for resolving the numerous issues that are involved in correcting a front end that has been worked hard. If you have a difficult problem -or any problem with the front end of your truck, it is worth the drive into the city.

After being told by another garage that my Camry's lower control arms and a tie rod end needed to be replaced in addition to needing an alignment, a wheel and 2 tires for over $2k, I was crushed. The car has 192k miles so I resigned myself to buying a new car. Before starting the shopping process, I remembered using Framerite many years ago to straighten out the frame on an old Toyota Corolla. So, I called Framerite and spoke to Tom. I decided to get a second opinion and very interestingly, Framerite's assessment was a bit different from the other garage's assessment. The Camry only needed the alignment, a wheel and 2 tires - all for about $570. Framerite had the repairs done by the afternoon and the car is driving great. Needless to say that I won't be bringing any of my cars back to the other shop. I highly commend Tom's honesty and sensitivity toward keeping the repair costs to a minimum.

Very nice telephone presence. Felt priority even before coming into the business. Once arriving, Paul was very professional and polite. And other employees that came out all greeted me with a smile, which I think in any business now is rare. I appreciated the work that was put in.

I greatly appreciate how I was provided with all the detailed information about what was needed ; as well as the accommodating pricing. Because of my physical (impaired) status (recuperating from extensive spine surgery), I was given consideration , when it came to waiting for repairs. Everyone there was SO kind, polite and friendly. My over-all experience definitely makes it easy to refer someone.(Plus I have already told my cousin about the quality of service.) I wish I had found Framelite sooner / years before. (Framelite will be my regular go to for auto work.)

Excellent customer service. Bill/Debbie were very good at communicating what my options were for my car repairs and helping me determine what could wait and what should be done sooner rather than later. They took appointments and met my expectations in terms of getting the work done quickly. So far it seems like they have done good quality work for me! They may not be the cheapest, but I would rather have quality work over cheap work.

My Jeep still pulls to the right when I am driving (pretty significantly). I have changed all calipers, rotors and brake pads on the front end. I also pulled the pads off the rear brakes and saw they are all wearing evenly; I also replaced these. Any idea why it continues to pull right? Thanks for any information you may be able to share.
